

Pedro L. Rodríguez

Frontend Developer

I am a self-taught frontend developer based in Berlin. Proficient in HTML and CSS being able to translate wireframes and mock-ups focused primarily on responsive design and accessibility. Good foundations in JavaScript. Also familiar with SQL, React.js and Node.js.

Knowledge on the command line, GitHub, git-bash and Figma. To further enhance my knowledge and skills I am continuously studying on different platforms such as Codecademy, w3schools, Freecodecamp and relevant courses on Udemy.

I am committed to learn, gather experience and to put my knowledge to use in order to build a successful career in front-end development.

Thanks to many years working in the hospitality sector, I developed a series of soft skills such as responsibility, communication, customer service, creativity, leadership, being a team player, capability of managing stress and prioritization of tasks. Working proficiency in both English and Spanish language, as well as a solid B1 German complete my profile.

Currently I am looking for either as trainee/entry level or junior frontend developer in full time (part time also possible), whereby I am available for an immediate start.
